

AIRE EMERGING LEADERS PROGRAM

The AIRE Emerging Leaders Program, in partnership with ARCO/Murray, aims to support young industrial real estate and construction professionals through educational and networking opportunities.

By attending program events, emerging leaders can get a better understanding of the relationship between real estate and construction. Each experience aims to help young real estate professionals understand and apply construction knowledge and terminology in their day-to-day operations, allowing them to grow quickly in their careers. The program also allows members to build lasting connections that can lead to personal and professional success down the road.

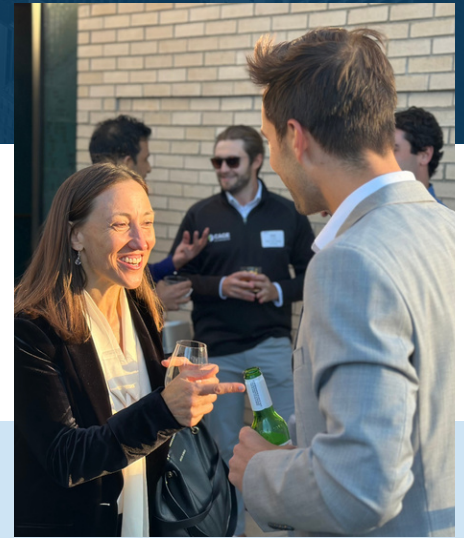

Educational Panel

Each year, our panel comprises seasoned professionals from the industrial real estate industry, providing invaluable guidance and strategic insights to have success early on in your professional career.

ARCO Jobsite Tour

Emerging Leaders are welcomed to an active Chicagoland ARCO jobsite to dive deeper into the design-build construction process and learn how to better communicate with their clients while walking prospective properties.

Networking Event

As an end-of-the-summer celebration, Emerging Leaders are invited to sip on some drinks and enjoy the Chicago skyline, while networking with young real estate professionals of all industries.
